

Instructions for preparation of SEPARATION NOTICE
(Form DOL - 800)

State law requires that each organizational unit furnish to each terminating employee a separation notice at such time as said employee leaves the employment of the University. Completion of this form is required for any terminating faculty member or classified employee regardless of the percent time of employment, the duration of employment, or whether classified as a regular or temporary employee. Completion of this form is not required for employees classified as University student employees.

The original Separation Notice should be given to the terminating employee no later than the employee's last working day. For employees who have quit without notice, the form should be mailed to the employee's last known home address. Retain one copy of the Separation Notice in the employee's departmental employee personnel file, and forward one copy of the Separation Notice to the Records Department of Human Resources. (Due to the need for immediate access to this form for responding to state inquires concerning unemployment claims, please mail this form directly to the Records Department and do not attach to the terminating personnel report.)

If a regular employee is terminated during his/her initial probationary period, no reason for termination should be given on the form. The statement on the DOL - 800 Separation Notice should state, "terminated during probationary period."

Each employing unit should have one or more University administrative or supervisory personnel designated as authorized to sign the Separation Notice. Care should be exercised by those designated employees to ensure Separation Notices are properly executed. These completed Separation Notices could be used to determine eligibility for unemployment compensation and could, in some cases, be used by an employee wishing to contest the manner or reason for termination.

More specific instructions for the completion of the Separation Notice are on page 3 of this document. If you have questions concerning the completion or processing of the DOL - 800 Separation Notice, please contact the Records Department, Staff Records Manager at (706) 542-4088.
