

FEATURES

14 Serving the community...

UGA education faculty and students impact the Athens community daily through the services they provide in several clinics, including centers for speech and hearing, counseling psychology, reading and fitness. By Catharin Shepard

26 Questions with...

We talk with UGA education professor Derrick Alridge about his research on how history textbooks shortchange Martin Luther King, Jr.'s life, unsung heroes of the civil rights movement and hip hop as a social movement. By Michael Childs

44 Keeping the Colts Super

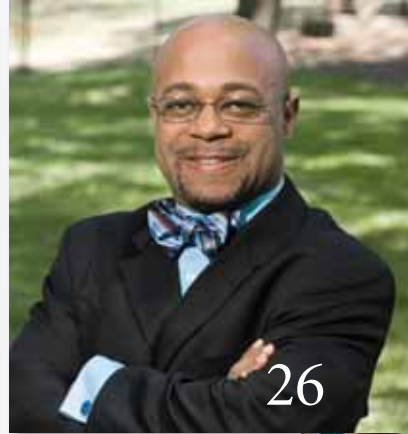

Bryant Baugh (far L), says the academic foundation and clinical training he received at UGA helped get him to where he is today—beginning his fourth season as an assistant athletic trainer with the 2007 Super Bowl Champion Indianapolis Colts. By Michael Childs

DEPARTMENTS

- 3 National Rankings
- 22 Honor Roll of Donors
- 24 Scholarship Recipients
- 32 Campus Briefs
- 34 Faculty Recognition
- 36 Media Corner
- 39 Student Honors
- 48 Alumni Awards

Inside Cover Photo by Rick O'Quinn

The mammoth $40 million Ramsey Student Center for Physical Activities is the nation's largest on-campus facility for recreation and fitness. The north wing of the center includes 50,000 square feet of academic space on three floors, home to the college's department of kinesiology and part of the department of counseling and human development services.

COVER STORY

4 New Partnership aims to lift those left behind

UGA education faculty, students help alternative high school students find, work toward career paths. By Kathleen Diez Kuss