

Excellence

FACULTY AWARDS AND HONORS FOR 2006-07

International/National

Mary M. Atwater, a professor in mathematics and science education, received the Legendary Award from the Association of Multicultural Science Education in recognition of her work in pioneering multicultural science education.

Deryl Bailey, an associate professor in counseling and human development services, received the 2007 Mary Smith Arnold Anti-Oppression Award from the Counselors for Social Justice, a division of the American Counseling Association.

Ted Baumgartner, a professor in the department of kinesiology and a UGA faculty member for 30 years, received the Honor Award from the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance for his meritorious service to the profession. The award is the second-highest the AAHPERD bestows.

Cooper

Diane L. Cooper, professor in counseling and human development services and coordinator of UGA's master's program in College Student Affairs Administration, was elected to the executive council of the American College Personnel Association.

Cooper also received the prestigious Senior Scholar Award from the American College Personnel Association recognizing her scholarly achievements and leadership in the field of college student affairs.

Laura Dean, an assistant professor in counseling and human development services, received the prestigious 2007 Annuit Coeptis Senior Professional Award from the American College Personnel Association.

Edward Delgado-Romero, an associate professor in counseling and human development services, received the Distinguished Professional Early Career Award from the National Latino Psychological Association.

Delgado-Romero was also voted president-elect of the NLPAA.

Brian Glaser, a professor of counseling psychology, and Delgado-Romero were inducted as fellows of the American Psychological Association. Glaser is a fellow of the Society of Counseling Psychology (Division 17), and Delgado-Romero is a fellow of the Society of Psychological Study of Ethnic Minority Issues (Division 45).

Arthur M. (Andy) Horne, a Distinguished Research Professor Emeritus of counseling and interim director of the College's new Educational Policy and Evaluation Center, received the Eminent Career Award from the Association for Specialists in Group Work. It is the highest honor accorded by the group.

Horne

Horne also received the Outstanding Advocate for Boys Award from Division 51 of the American Psychological Association.

Gwynn Powell, an associate professor in counseling and human development services, was elected to the national board of directors of the American Camp Association.

Leslie Steffe, a Distinguished Research Professor of mathematics education, received the inaugural Senior Scholar Award from the Special Interest Group for Research in Mathematics Education (SIG/RME) of the American Educational Research Association.

Alan Stewart, an associate professor in counseling and human development services, received the 2007 John Dussich Award from the American Society of Victimology.