

DEAN, COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

The University of Georgia invites nominations and applications for the position of Dean of the College of Education. The successful candidate will have substantial administrative and fiscal management experience; significant intellectual achievement; and the academic credentials or professional experience—Ph.D. or other appropriate terminal degree highly preferred—to be appointed a professor with tenure in the College of Education.

The new dean will be a collaborative, ethical, entrepreneurial leader with a track record of consensus building who will lead a College of Education with excellent education and research programs and:

- Lead, develop and support a positive environment for research-oriented faculty to enhance the quality of undergraduate programs and the reputation of graduate programs;
- Recruit and retain a strong, diverse and culturally accepting faculty and student body;
- Develop and maintain strong relationships and/or programs with public and private school organizations in Athens and surrounding communities, Atlanta, the state of Georgia, nationally, and internationally;
- Build and sustain a relationship with the Georgia Department of Education, key state and national education leaders and NCATE; and
- Raise funds to support programs, research and facilities.

College of Education

One of the largest and most diverse colleges of its kind in the nation, the UGA College of Education offers 15 undergraduate majors and more than 34 graduate programs leading to careers as educators, counselors, psychologists, administrators, researchers, educational and health-related specialists. Its graduate programs are perennially ranked among the nation's top 20 public universities. At least five of its programs – elementary education, secondary education, counseling and human development services, and vocational/technical education – have ranked among the top 10 for more than a decade. Four other COE programs have consistently ranked among the top 20. The College's rigorous academic programs offer opportunities for study and research with many nationally and internationally recognized faculty who are pursuing cutting-edge research, forging bold initiatives and building community-based partnerships.

The University is situated in Athens, Georgia, a very attractive place to live, a vibrant university town of 100,000 (250,000 in the SMSA) located approximately 60 miles northeast of downtown Atlanta, an international business center with a population over 4M. Athens is convenient to Atlanta, an affordable housing market, a moderate climate, with proximity to recreational opportunities (driving distance to both the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and 40 minutes from the mountains).

Applications received by March 9, 2008 are assured full consideration. Inquiries, applications and nominations will be treated in confidence to the extent permitted by Georgia law. Application materials (to include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, and the names, addresses, telephone numbers and email addresses of five references) must be electronically submitted (MS Word format) to:
