

Sandria Stephenson, a Ph.D. student in the Adult Education Program, received the Association for Continuing Higher Education (ACHE) Research Award for $1,500.00 to continue her dissertation research. The ACHE serves the entire spectrum of continuing higher education in the United States and internationally. Ms. Stephenson's research centers on continuing higher education (CHE) leaders' strategic responses to the political-economic context of higher education. The working title of her dissertation is Politics, Policies, and Socio-economic Impact of Continuing Higher Education. Dr. Ronald M. Cervero serves as her dissertation chair.

March 4, 2008