Course Expectations:

1. This is your seminar. It is expected that you will attend and actively participate in all of its meetings. Several class meetings on the course schedule are bolded; the content from these meetings is vital to your success in this course and cannot be made up. Consequently, a deduction of two points will be made from a student's final grade for each of the bolded meetings that are missed. This policy applies to the final exam period as well. A student may be excused from this deduction if he or she notifies the instructor of an impending absence in writing at least 72 hours prior to the schedule class, and if the instructor approves the student's excuse. A funeral, your own or a close family member's, is an example of a legitimate excuse for an absence.
2. It is expected that you will be in your seats and prepared to participate in class activities no later than 10:10AM. Not only does tardiness disrupt the learning environment, it exhibits disrespect for your peers and the instructor. If you have a legitimate reason to be tardy, please inform the instructor.
3. If you do miss a class meeting, you are responsible for its content. Consult your syllabus, WebCT, and/or your classmates (not the instructor) regarding the content missed.
4. Written assignments are to be turned-in at the beginning of the class period on the day they are due. Ten percent will be deducted for every 24-hour period that an assignment is late. No assignment will be accepted later than 72 hours past its due date.
5. Please note that the Internship Goals, the cover letter, and the resume will all require several drafts to complete. If the initial draft of one of these is not turned in its due date, you will have 72 hours to turn in the draft, after which it will no longer be accepted. Even after turning a copy of one of these three assignments for a grade further drafts will be required in order to create a final version that is fit to send to internship agencies.
6. All written work should conform to the Recreation and Leisure Studies Program's Standards for Written Work, which is posted on WebCT, and the American Psychological Association's Publication Manual (5th Ed.). The correct format for resumes and cover letters is also covered in the required text.
- 7. IF YOU FAIL THIS COURSE, YOU CANNOT PARTICIPATE IN AN INTERNSHIP!

Performance Evaluation: A student's grade in this course will be calculated from the following assignments. Please note the grading scale and the use of the plus/minus grading system.

Departmental and Course Policies

Appropriate Classroom Behavior: You are adults and I expect you to behave that way in this classroom. The free and open exchange of ideas can only be possible when we respect one another. Therefore a diversity of opinions, including disagreements, will be tolerated so long as those opinions do not threaten the physical or emotional safety of classmates or guests.

This is an interactive course and is not evaluated using quizzes or exams. The presence of personal computers in the classroom is a distraction for students and instructors alike. The use of laptops and other personal computing devices is therefore prohibited during our class meetings unless otherwise sanctioned by the instructor. Failure to comply with this policy will result in penalties identical to those for cell phone usage.

The use of cell phones, pagers, and other disruptive devices will not be tolerated under any circumstances. If any of these devices are used or go off during class, the student responsible for the device will write a 2-3 page essay commenting on the impact of cellular/digital technology on the recreation and leisure experience. The paper is due exactly one-week from the incident. Failure to complete the paper in the timeframe will result in 5 % being deducted from your overall grade in this course. Please do not put me in a position of enforcing this policy; turn off devices before coming to class or leave them at home or in your car.

Academic Integrity: “All students are responsible for maintaining the highest standards of honesty and integrity in every phase of their academic careers. The penalties for academic dishonesty are severe and ignorance is not an acceptable defense” (A Culture of Honesty). All academic work must meet the standards contained in A Culture of Honesty. Each student is responsible to inform themselves about those standards before performing any academic work. You can read the policy at www.uga.edu/ovpi. Violations include: cheating (use of any dishonest, deceptive or fraudulent means, unauthorized aid or assistance or the giving or receiving of unfair advantage on any form of academic work; plagiarism (using the ideas or work of another without giving credit to the source); copying the language, structure, ideas, and/or thoughts of another and adopting those as one’s original work; falsification, statement of untruth, either spoken or written, regarding any circumstances relating to academic work. Copying the work from a previous class, using another student's work, failing to cite references, etc. are also considered violations.

Accommodations: The University of Georgia’s Department of Counseling and Human Development Services is committed to providing access to all persons with disabilities and will provide accommodation if notified. If you have a documented disability or any other special needs and wish to discuss academic accommodations, please contact me as soon as possible. Necessary academic accommodations will be made for you based on the recommendations received from Disability Services. You must be registered with Disability Services to receive academic accommodations.

Incompletes: Incompletes must be approved 14 days prior to the last day of classes.

Office Hours: I am happy to see students during posted office hours. Students who have made an appointment will receive priority over those without one. I am also happy to meet with students outside of regular office hours, but that needs to be pre-arranged.

The course syllabus is a general plan for the course; deviations announced to the class by the instructor may be necessary.
